DUBLIN ARENA

With an all-seated capacity of over 50 thousand, the Dublin Arena has been home to the Republic of Ireland's football and rugby union teams since it opened in 2010. The venue stands on the site of the old Lansdowne Road ground, which had been the Irish football team's stadium since the 1980s.

How to get there: The Dublin Arena is in central Dublin, in the Ballsbridge area, about 2km from the city centre. The walk from St Stephen's Green Park or the Trinity College area will take 20 to 30 minutes. From Connolly Station or Pearse Station it is possible to take the DART train southbound to the stadium.

FACTS ABOUT DUBLIN

Dublin is the capital of the Republic of Ireland, the sea is to one side of the city and the Wicklow mountains to the south. It was once a Viking settlement known in the Irish language as black pool (dubh lind). The city is home to great names such as Oscar Wilde, James Joyce and U2.
